Kelley Park Case Is Heard Today

Issue Involves Lease Of 5.4 Acre Tract

Failure on the part of the owners and the city to reach an agreement on the Kelley Memorial Park tract (West End Park) sent the case back to the court this afternoon. Judge Frank Cope of Carroll County is presiding at the trial in Lisbon.

The case was started this morning but recessed shortly afterward when the parties involved agreed to another conference. No settlement was reached at the conference.

The city has asked the court to force the owners Andrew and Catherine Martin of 590 N. Howard Ave. and Gus H. and Alfreda Bauman of 1654 E. State St. to carry out the provisions of a lease given the city Aug. 4, 1947.

The lease permitted the city to use the 5.4 acre tract as a public park and playground for $1 a year for a five-year period, with the option to purchase the property at any time for $200 or release the plot at the end of five years.

In October, 1951, the city tried to exercise the option of buying the land. City Solicitor W. J. Hunston said, but the owners refused to sell, claiming that a breach had been made in the contract.

Last August a pre-trial hearing was held in Lisbon before Judge Joel H. Sharp regarding the dispute but the property owners and city officials failed to reach an agreement and the case was assigned to trial.

Since then sporadic other meetings and talks among city officials and the land owners failed to resolve the issue satisfactorily to both sides.

Barons' Delmonte Among Injured; Auto Driver Is Arrested

Dutch Delmonte, 24, a member of the Cleveland Barons hockey team was among the five persons injured in one of the five area traffic accidents investigated by Salem State Highway Patrolmen over the weekend.

The serious mishap occurred Sunday at 1:45 a.m. on Route 14, one-half mile north of the Mahoning-Portage County Line, when a car driven by Douglas Franklin, 24, of Pittsburgh, Pa. crashed into the rear of a Central Greyhound bus carrying the hockey team as it was stopped in a line of traffic.

The bus was driven by H. W. Osbourne, 37, of Cleveland. The team was enroute to Cleveland for its game Sunday evening with the Pittsburgh Hornets when the accident happened.

Sitting in Rear of Bus

Delmonte, who was sitting in the rear of the bus, sustained a back injury. He was treated at the Salem City Hospital.

The other persons hurt were Franklin and three passengers in his auto.

Ethel Louis, 24, of Pittsburgh sustained internal injuries and a possible fractured ankle, and Irene Burney, 36, of Pittsburgh, received contusions of the chest. Both were admitted to Salem City Hospital and are reported in fairly good condition today.

Luther Louis, 25, of Pittsburgh, received lacerations of the head and Franklin sustained lacerations of the head and contusions of the knee. The men were treated at the hospital and released.

Cited by Patrol

Franklin was cited by patrolmen for reckless operation and fined $15 and costs by Justice of the Peace Elmer Smolk of Edinburg. In other accidents over the weekend, patrolmen reported that a car driven by John W. Alexander, 43, of 189 W. Wilson St., ran into the rear of a truck-trailer operated by Clyde A. Furley, 40, of Centerburg, O., when Furley slowed down on Route 62, one-half mile east of Alliance, Sunday at 8:20 p.m.

Alexander was arrested and fined $15 and costs by Acting Mayor Ned Massa for failure to stop within the assured clear distance ahead.

A car driven by Edward Keese, 27, of Detroit crashed into the rear of another car operated by Vernon Lovell, 60, of Berrienspring, Mich. on the Unity Road, just south of Route 14 Sunday at 9:50 p.m.

Keese was arrested by patrolmen and fined $10 and costs for failure to stop within the assured clear distance ahead by Paul Merwin, Mayor of East Palestine.

In another accident, Richard Downey, 20, of Negley, lost control of his car, causing it to leave the road and rip out 30 feet of guard rail on Route 170, one and one-half miles south of East Palestine, Sunday at 12:30 a.m.

He was arrested by patrolmen for driving an unsafe vehicle.

A car driven by William Wells, 34, of Ravenna, rammed into the side of an auto operated by Ronald Weigand, 16, of Sebring when Weigand attempted to make a left turn while Wells was passing him, patrolmen reported.

Weigand was turned over to juvenile authorities.

U.N. Rehearses Trade Of Disabled Prisoners

Korean Elections Urged To Test Red Peace Talk

WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) proposed today that the United Nations test the faith of Russian peace moves with a demand for free elections that might unite Korea.

Knowland, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, joined Senators Taft (R-Ohio) and Wiley (R-Wis.) in casting doubt on the Kremlin's sincerity and in cautioning against letting the free world's guard down.

Knowland flew to San Francisco today to address a meeting of the California State Dental Association. In a prepared text, made available here, he suggested the Communists may want a truce in Korea so Russia can have a year or two to stockpile atomic bombs while it hopes the free world disarms.

Asks Test Of Intentions

"It becomes greatly important that we now give the acid test to determine the good faith of these Communist proposals," he said. "A clear demonstration would be on their attitude toward the immediate holding of United Nations supervised free elections in North Korea."

"Then, with a united, free Korea, the United Nations and the great powers should guarantee the independence, the territorial integrity and the neutrality of the Republic of Korea."

Suggests Other Tests

Knowland suggested as further tests efforts to get an Austrian peace treaty ratified, and moves to force the holding of free elections in Poland and in Communist-dominated China.

The question of American aid to the Far East, with a possible shift of U. S. grants from Western Europe to the Orient, was explored by Secretary of State Dulles in testimony March 18 before a House appropriations subcommittee.

In his testimony, made public yesterday, Dulles said:

1. The U. S. contribution to the North Atlantic allies, to be considered this month in Paris, "could be considerably less" than now.

2. More help for Indochina, where the French have been fighting a long guerrilla war against the Communists, might permit large cutbacks there later.

3. More money may be needed to put lagging deliveries of promised goods to Formosa, the seat of Nationalist China, back on schedule.

Ammo Supply Low, Byrd Says

Senator Says Stock In U.S. Is Depleted

WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) said today the ammunition supply "in this country is dangerously depleted" although current supplies in the Far East, including Korea, may be adequate.

"It took two years to get deliveries on what they ordered after the Korean outbreak and there still is not enough ammunition," Byrd said in an interview.

His comments came as three Pentagon generals, responsible for production, distribution and stockpiling of Army ammunition, were called before a Senate subcommittee investigating reported shell shortages in Korea.

Those scheduled as witnesses were Maj. Gen. E. L. Ford, chief of ordnance; Lt. Gen. W. B. Palmer, G-4, which handles movement of supplies; and Lt. Gen. G. H. Decker, Army comptroller.

"Broad and searching questions will be asked," Chairman Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.) said in advance of the hearing.

"It is apparent that there has been much red tape which was not effectively dealt with by Army officials. . . . The ammunition program did not receive the driving force it deserved."

Byrd, in comments during and outside the previous hearings, has gone on record in favor of a complete overhauling of Army ordnance. And he said the entire Pentagon defense program may need revising with businessmen replacing generals and admirals in key posts on contracts and production.

Secretary of the Army Stevens won praise from some of the investigating senators this week end with his report that new ammunition production is now under way and supplies in Korea are now "in good shape."

But Stevens, in testimony Friday, agreed with Byrd that the over-all ammunition supply still is far from adequate. He said the huge stocks remaining from World War II have been badly depleted, leaving little stockpile against a possible global war.

God's Coaching Can Get You Across Finish Line, Dodds Says

Gil Dodds, who was a Boston College theological student when he set a new world record for the indoor mile, compared his track rules to the rules of life when he spoke here Sunday at the First Friends Church.

Dodds, now athletic director at Wheaton College in Illinois, spoke to a crowded auditorium at both Sunday School and church services, and then caught a noon train back to Chicago.

"The important thing in life," Dodds declared, "is to so live that you will get across the finish line and into the kingdom of God."

The nationally known sports figure said that his rules in athletic competition not only still applied to his daily living, but could be put to practical use by everyone who wanted to be a Christian and win the race for life.

Dodds said his first rule was, "when you run, lay aside every weight." And, in recalling the 12th chapter of Hebrews, Dodds admonished his listeners to "lay aside every weight of sin so you can be a most effective witness for Christ."

His second rule, Dodds said, was to run with patience; set a pace and keep it. This should apply to everyday living, he declared.

His third rule: Keep your eyes straight ahead. "Forget the materialistic world. Run as an athlete should, with God as the head coach."

The famous athlete told of his personal work as a Christian, working among others to help them really find life. Quoting John 5, 11 and 12th verses, he said, "He that hath the Son has life."

As a Christian, Dodds said he had found salvation with remission of his sins through Christ; had peace of mind and soul through prayer, and had received the assurance of eternal life.

Final Details Set Exchange For Monday

Reds Press For Quick Resumption Of Truce Talks

MUNSAN, Korea (P)—Allied soldiers and Marines today staged a dress rehearsal covering every detail of the exchange of sick and wounded Korean War prisoners, which begins next Monday.

United Nations and Communist staff officers earlier today settled final details of the dramatic exchange. The agreement was signed Saturday in a ceremony at Panmunjom.

At the signing the Reds submitted their latest request for renewal of full-scale armistice talks, broken off by the U. N. last Oct. 8. The U. N. has not replied.

To Start Today

Peiping radio announced the first convoy of sick and wounded Allied prisoners would start for the exchange site today. The 23 vehicles will arrive at Kaesong Thursday and remain there four days before the actual swap begins. The U. N. pressed for an earlier start but the Reds refused.

U. S. Marines, British and South Korean troops played the part of sick and wounded prisoners as U. N. medical and security personnel held a realistic dress rehearsal for the exchange.

Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Eighth Army commander, headed an array of high officers who witnessed the drill five miles south of Panmunjom.

Breakdown Of Nationalities
At the truce village earlier, the Communists handed over a further breakdown of nationalities of the 600 ailing POWs they said they would exchange.

Today's dress rehearsal included both the giving and the taking of prisoners. The first stage was an enactment of delivery of Red prisoners. The second was the receiving of Allied POWs and moving them to Freedom Village near Munsan for medical treatment and processing.

The dry run was held along nine miles of the 14-mile route from Munsan to the Panmunjom exchange site.

The role of the ailing Reds was taken by 225 U. S. Marines, British and South Korean troops. They were loaded on a hospital train at Munsan. In the actual exchange, Red prisoners will be brought from Pusan to Munsan by rail.

From Munsan, the "patients" were transferred to a fleet of 30 ambulances and driven to the simulated exchange point. There they were turned over in groups of 25 to an imaginary Red receiving team.

The same group played the part of returning Allied prisoners.

In the actual exchange, the U. N. will turn over 500 POWs daily in groups of 25 and the Reds will deliver 100 daily in groups of 25.

Family Of Six Dies In Fire At Home

ELLENVILLE, N. Y. (P)—A family of six was wiped out today in a fire that leveled their 100-year-old rural frame home.

The father, a guard at the Woodbourne Correctional Institution near here, apparently died in a futile effort to save his wife and their four small sons.

The dead were Vaughn Decker, 30, his wife, Mary, 27, and their sons, Richard, 5, Stephen, 4, Carey, 3, and Vaughn Jr., 8 months.

Decker's body was found on the living room floor fully clothed. Police said he apparently was overcome by smoke as he sought to reach the other members of the family, who were asleep. Decker had finished his tour of duty at midnight and probably was still awake when the blaze started.

Police said they could find no clue to the cause of the blaze.

Congress Sets Full Schedule

Senate To Resume Tideland Debate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Easter vacation ends for the House today, and both it and the Senate have been alerted to expect a hard work schedule from here on if they want to adjourn early in July.

Long daily sessions and frequent Saturday meetings are likely.

The House planned to skim through several noncontroversial bills today. The Senate, which had no extended Easter recess, scheduled more debate on a bill to establish state title to offshore submerged lands.

That measure, under debate for more than a week already, may keep the Senate busy all this week. Republican Leader Taft of Ohio has served notice that sessions will be long and frequent.

Waiting behind it on the Senate docket is a controversial measure which would give the President power to freeze wages, prices and rents for as long as 90 days in a grave emergency. This bill would replace the wage-price-rent control act expiring April 30.

Speaker Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass.), boss of the House, has announced that Saturday sessions will be the rule rather than the exception there from now until adjournment time.

Appropriations bills will have the right of way in the House as quickly as the appropriations committee can prepare them. Chairman Taber (R-NY) of that committee plans to send the bills to the House floor at the rate of two weekly, starting with the Interior Department's budget this week.

Pressing for early consideration is a bill to extend the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, due to expire June 12. House Ways and Means Committee hearings on this bill won't start until April 22.

Meanwhile, at both ends of the Capitol, the investigations which have made most of the headlines in this Congress will continue. Among other things, they deal with communism, influence, ammunition supplies.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, said yesterday he anticipates from the Eisenhower administration "little new and far-reaching legislation."

"Judging from the statements thus far issued, this administration seems to feel we have had enough," Johnson said in a broadcast recorded for Texas stations. "Possibly they are right."

He said responsible congressional leaders will oppose any tax cuts until the budget can be brought near balance, and that appears doubtful this year.

Abductor Shot By Educator

Man Tried To Carry Daughter From Home

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Dr. Laban Lacy Rice, 83-year-old lecturer and former university president, shot and seriously wounded a man who attempted to carry off his daughter in a week-end invasion of their home in suburban Gulfport.

Joe Ciani, 46, a carpenter, is in serious condition in a hospital from bullet wounds in the chest and shoulder but he is expected to recover.

Rice, who used a 50-year-old pistol to halt Ciani, also accidentally shot his daughter, Mrs. Katherine Shaw, 58, in one hand. She was treated for the wound and shock.

Sheriff Sid Saunders said Ciani had been interested romantically in Mrs. Shaw since she hired him for some carpenter work three years ago. Several months ago, police were called when Ciani went to the Gulfport home to press his attentions on Mrs. Shaw.

Saturday night he returned to the home, Saunders said, and when Rice ordered him to leave, Ciani picked up Mrs. Shaw, who weighs about 120 pounds, and ran out of the house with her. The shooting followed.

Rice, after being held overnight in jail, was released Sunday. No charges have been filed.

Police said Rice told them he was anxious to "get any legal technicalities out of the way" so he could leave for a scheduled lecture tour among Northern colleges. He had planned to leave Tuesday.

Rice is an international authority on relativity and astronomy and author of the book, "The Universe, Its Origin, Nature and Destiny."

He served as professor of English language and literature at Cumberland University in Lebanon, Tenn., before becoming its chancellor in 1939 and its president in 1941.

Group Of GOP Senators Seek Shakeup In State Department

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said today a group of Republican senators will insist on a sweeping shakeup of top-level policy-making officials in the State Department.

"It's not a question of loyalty or security," Mundt said in an interview. "We promised a change in the last campaign but an alarming number of the old Acheson team still hold most of the top posts."

Mundt said the demand will have the support of Senators Bridges (R-NH), McCarthy (R-Wis.), Ferguson (R-Mich) and other members of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

A face-to-face showdown on this issue may come when Secretary of State Dulles appears before the committee to support the State Department's request for millions of dollars in funds.

In testimony before a House appropriations subcommittee March 18, made public yesterday, Dulles said the Eisenhower administration may shift a substantial share of American aid from Western Europe to the Far East.

Donald B. Lourie, assistant secretary of state for administration, told the subcommittee the department's operating allotment has been trimmed from 331 million to 266 million dollars.

Chairman Bridges indicated the Senate committee's hearings on State Department appropriations

Mundt said he and other senators have been studying telephone directories of the State Department.

"With the exception of a handful of new top officials, it's the same old lineup," he said.

"We were told there would be a sharp change in foreign policy and that we would move forward with Eisenhower."

"And yet scores, perhaps hundreds of these top officials, who are not under civil service, are the same ones who made policy for Acheson and Truman."

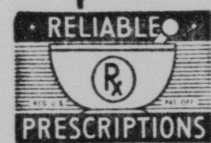

"It should be an interesting session with Secretary Dulles."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rain washed out the finale of Washington's annual Cherry Blossom Festival yesterday, but there may yet be a silver lining for the queen.

A steady drizzle led officials to call off the water skiing pageant, windup of the five-day frolic.

Queen Janet Kaye Bailey of Akron, O., who was crowned Saturday by Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, had trouble getting her flowing coronation gown into a suitcase. Said the 18-year-old beauty: "I think I'll get married in it."

Man Held On Charge Of Killing Wife

CLEVELAND (AP)—Homicide detectives held Peter Falletta, 60, on a first degree murder charge today and accused him of shooting his wife in a rage over his daughter's "poodle" style hair cut.

The unemployed house painter himself was at first so upset after his capture by shot gun-wielding detectives that he had to be given a sedative at St. Alexis Hospital before he was lodged in jail.

He admitted he had thrown the gun that killed his wife, Angelina, 56, "over a hill." Detectives say he also wounded his daughter, Sarah, 16, the girl with the poodle cut, when she tried to call police after Friday's shooting at their home.

The Fallettas, say police, had been feuding over Sarah's getting a poodle cut for some time. Her twin sister said he also objected to Sarah going out on dates.

4 Police Douse Fire With 3.2% Beer

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—It was the handiest liquid around, so four cops—doubling in brass as early morning firemen—used 3.2 per cent beer to help douse a fire at a drive-in restaurant.

Patrolmen in a cruiser discovered the blaze coming from stacks of beer cases under a counter. They radioed for help, then squirted fire extinguishers from their own cruiser. When that ran out, they poured beer into buckets and threw it on the flames.

The blaze was almost out by the time firemen arrived. A fireman noted that the policemen were using one of the best fire extinguishers in the world. Beer foam is composed largely of carbon dioxide, which is used in many extinguishers.

No. 76 On GOP List

A list of 75 accomplishments prepared by the Republican national committee, covering the first two and a-half months of the Eisenhower administration, is too obviously an attempt to build good will to need comment.

Republicans have a public-relations problem. Something has happened to the good will they possessed when the votes were counted last November and still had last Jan. 20 on inauguration day.

It has been battered and bent by the weight of their responsibility. The new administration is sadder and wiser about the responsibilities of government. It is sadder and wiser about its own structure.

President Eisenhower's crusade, which was the bright promise that had attracted millions of voters sick and weary of the sniveling, pretty politics of the Truman era, is hard to see.

A lot of politicians who would have ended up as also-rans if they had been running without Eisenhower's support keep standing in front of the bright promise. They have a silly illusion that the electorate voted for them, instead of for a pledge of something better than more politics.

The Republican national committee might add that No. 76 in its list of accomplishments is proof that it never convinced the members of the Grand Old Party that their first responsibility is to restore faith in party government. If voters had wanted an indefinite continuation of bickering, they could have done better for voting for Adlai Stevenson, the ADA candidate, who then would have been cut to ribbons in the feud between the irreconcilable factions of the New Deal.

It was pointed out many times last fall that the fate of representative democracy was hanging on the outcome of the election. It was, because the fate of the representative democracy is hanging on the fate of the two-party system.

The Republican party is back in power after 20 years of rule by a coalition which came perilously close to learning how to stay in power permanently. The peril was not dispelled by one election; once before, in 1946, The GOP had won control of Congress only to lose it in the next election.

Frank Lausche's Secret

Budding politicians never were given better free advice than was packed into a speech by Gov. Lausche in Cleveland last Thursday. He condensed the experience of his political lifetime into 10 rules.

The 10 rules could be condensed, in turn, into one rule: Keep faith with the people. That is Frank Lausche's secret of success. He has used it to make a brilliant career in politics.

Whether you disagree with what he has done in his career or not, the significant thing about Gov. Lausche is the fact he has been given bipartisan support in a partisan job. And he has done it by displeasing more often than not the political leaders of both parties—his own and the opposition.

This, theoretically, should have sealed his doom. Instead, it has made him the perennial governor of Ohio. It has made him the only visible asset of the Democratic party in the entire state and the darling of the Republicans, solely because hundreds of thousands of Ohioans believe absolutely in his integrity.

Like Sen. Taft, whom he admires and who, in turn, admires him, Gov. Lausche can command the confidence of people who disagree with his opinions—the ultimate triumph of political integrity. That's the only secret there is and it's free.

Keep faith with the people and quit worrying about the politicians.

Ten To One

It will occur to someone in charge of North Korean and Chinese prisoners that sickness is going to be a difficult condition to define and detect in the case of men who would be happier among their own kind.

It has occurred to many of us at a safe distance from the Korean war that an exchange of sick and wounded personnel would be a wonderful opportunity to send home to their own kind the Communist prisoners who have been making life miserable for their fellow prisoners in U. N. camps.

This might even account for the startling discrepancy in the totals named in negotiations—600 persons to be turned over by the Communists in exchange for nearly 6,000 of their own people. The fact this is being agreed to by U. N. negotiators suggests there must be some very powerful reason for wanting to get rid of nearly 6,000 Communists, a reason more powerful than the fact they may be sick or wounded.

The prisoner-of-war problem has been the sticking point in truce negotiations. The U. N. position that prisoners would not be exchanged against their will was defended for its effect on Asiatic morale in the fight against Communism. It had to be proved that an anti-Communist could count on U. N. support.

Soviet Peace Game

By JAY G. HAYDEN

Election Of Ike, Death Of Stalin Bring Change

If the new Russian government really has turned to a policy of peace and cooperation with the Western World, past experience prompts a question as to what benefits it expects in return.

The first show of S. Stalin's policy of total obduracy was at the London Conference of Foreign Ministers in the fall of 1945, called to begin World War II peacemaking. In contrast with meetings up to and including Potsdam, in which the Russians had been reasonably friendly, at London Molotov simply blocked everything. And the reason for this attitude, in the opinion of the then U. S. secretary of state, James F. Byrnes, was that a halt suddenly had been called on the Soviet's predatory aims. In his book, "Speaking Frankly," Byrnes said:

"Mr. Molotov . . . declared that our policy had changed since President Roosevelt's death. His attitude was understandable. At the first meeting in Teheran his need was for a second front and for further lend-lease aid. Both these requests were agreed to by President Roosevelt. At Yalta the President had agreed to the transfer to Russia of the (Polish) territory east of the Curzon Line and to offset this had agreed that there should be some extension (at German expense) of the western boundary of Poland. He had agreed to the transfer of the Kuriles and the remainder of Sakhalin, and to the transfer by China of Port Arthur and of certain rights in Dairen.

"At Potsdam, we had agreed to support at the peace conference the claim of the Soviets for Konigsberg and the valuable territory of East Prussia. We had recognized for the time being their fait accompli in East Germany and had made a reparations settlement that they regarded as acceptable.

"Now at London, Mr. Molotov saw no chance to take home any packages. He could not understand why we would not accept his interpretation that 'friendship' between our governments required that we let the Soviets establish complete suzerainty over the Balkan States.

"As far as I was concerned, Christmas was over—it was now Jan. 1 and we had many bills to pay. Instead of issuing more IOUs, I wanted to collect some we held. One of these I felt was the Yalta pledge on the treatment of the liberated states."

Byrnes, of course, accomplished nothing as concerned Balkan freedom. The only gain in that region since 1945 was the break-away from the Soviet by Yugoslavia, wholly unexpected by the West, and the help that development gave toward ridding Greece of Communists. Nor has any secretary of state since Byrnes marked up any clear-cut triumph over Russia.

True, Russia in 1949 retreated from its total land blockade of Berlin, but that obviously was because, due to the Allied airlift, the blockade failed to achieve the starvation of the Berlin population which the Russians expected.

All of which leads to the question: "Why are the Soviets now talking peace?"

The reason most often heard in official circles here is that the death of Stalin has raised a multitude of problems among the Communist rulers for the healing of which they need a period of international peace and quiet.

Secondly, there has been a change in the United States government. The Communists know that the Korean War was a major issue in our presidential campaign and that Eisenhower won on a promise to "do something" about that war.

Since his post-election visit to the Far East, Eisenhower has denaturalized the Formosan Strait, hastened the build-up of native anti-Communist troops in Korea and Indo-China, and induced a general tightening of trade restrictions against the Chinese mainland.

The Kremlin must have listened in with some apprehension on the uproar of demand, especially by newly elected Republicans, for a U. N. drive for full victory in Korea and, more recently, the appeal to that same purpose by the retired American commander of U. N. forces in Korea, Gen. Van Fleet.

Last but by no means least in the Communist calculation may be the possibility they see of stalling off rearmament of the two nations which, in times past, they have most feared—Germany and Japan.

Only last month, the West German Bundestag voted to provide 12 divisions for the European anti-Communist defense and the United States is pressing hard for French acceptance of that plan. In Japan an election soon is to be held with rearmament and U. S.-Japanese relations prominent issues.

It could be that Russia now sees more of what Byrnes called "packages to take home" from ending the Korean War and otherwise presenting a peaceful face, than from continuing unabated the now more than seven-year-old "cold war."

No Pershing Statue

By JACK WILLIAMS

One of the nation's most famed military leaders was Gen. John J. "Black Jack" Pershing, commander of the American Expeditionary Forces in World War I.

Yet, neither Missouri, the state of his birth, nor the nation's great military figures. He died July 15, 1948, at the age of almost 88 years.

Scores of statues preserving for history the nation's military heroes and political leaders, including the late Sen. Huey Long, dot Washington parks and fill the Capitol and other buildings.

A search of the records of the American Battle Monuments Commission here reveals this amazing fact:

There is not a statue of Gen. Pershing in the United States.

A remarkable and striking coincidence is that while Missouri's famed son thus goes unhonored by his nation and home state, his counterpart in World War II from Kansas, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, now is President.

Missouri has named a state park for Gen. Pershing. It consists of 1,836 acres and is located two miles west of Leclade, on U. S. Highway No. 36, to commemorate his birthplace. It has facilities for picknickers.

So far as records of the Monuments Commission here disclosed, the only effort to bring about a memorial for the military leader who was the symbol of World War I to millions of persons over the world, has been taken by Sen. Maybank. He has introduced a bill proposing that the Monuments Commission prepare plans for such a memorial.

It is the third successive Congress in which he has offered such a bill. It never has emerged from a committee's dusty pigeonhole and unless citizens get behind it there is the probability it will remain there this session.

Maybank is the only member of Congress who also is a member of the Monuments Commission. Before his death, Pershing was chairman of the Commission. His great modesty made it impossible such a suggestion as a memorial for him could be proposed while he was chairman. Maybank lost no time proposing one after the general's death.

World War I ended almost 35 years ago. Pershing retired from the Army almost 29 years ago. He has been dead almost five years.

By act of Congress, he was made general of the armies in 1919. He became army chief of staff in 1921 and retired September 13, 1924. He died in Walter Reed Army Hospital here after a long illness.

A state legislature may initiate action seeking to have the statue of its famous son placed in the nation's Capitol. There is no record here of such action having been taken in Missouri. Under Maybank's proposal, the memorial would be sponsored by the nation.

It is the practice that each state is allowed to place two statues in the capitol. Some states have none, some one and others have two.

Missouri is represented in the Capitol statuary by Francis P. Blair (1821-1875) and Thomas H. Benton (1782-1858). Blair was a soldier in the Civil War, an editor and prominent in the political life of the country for a long time, according to the official record. Benton is described there as:

"A senator, statesman and author; a warm supporter of President Jackson and other great patriots of that day."

There are busts of all former vice presidents of the United States in the Capitol. Missouri is represented by Harry S. Truman.

Missouri also is represented in the Capitol statuary with a bust of Champ Clark, former speaker of the House.

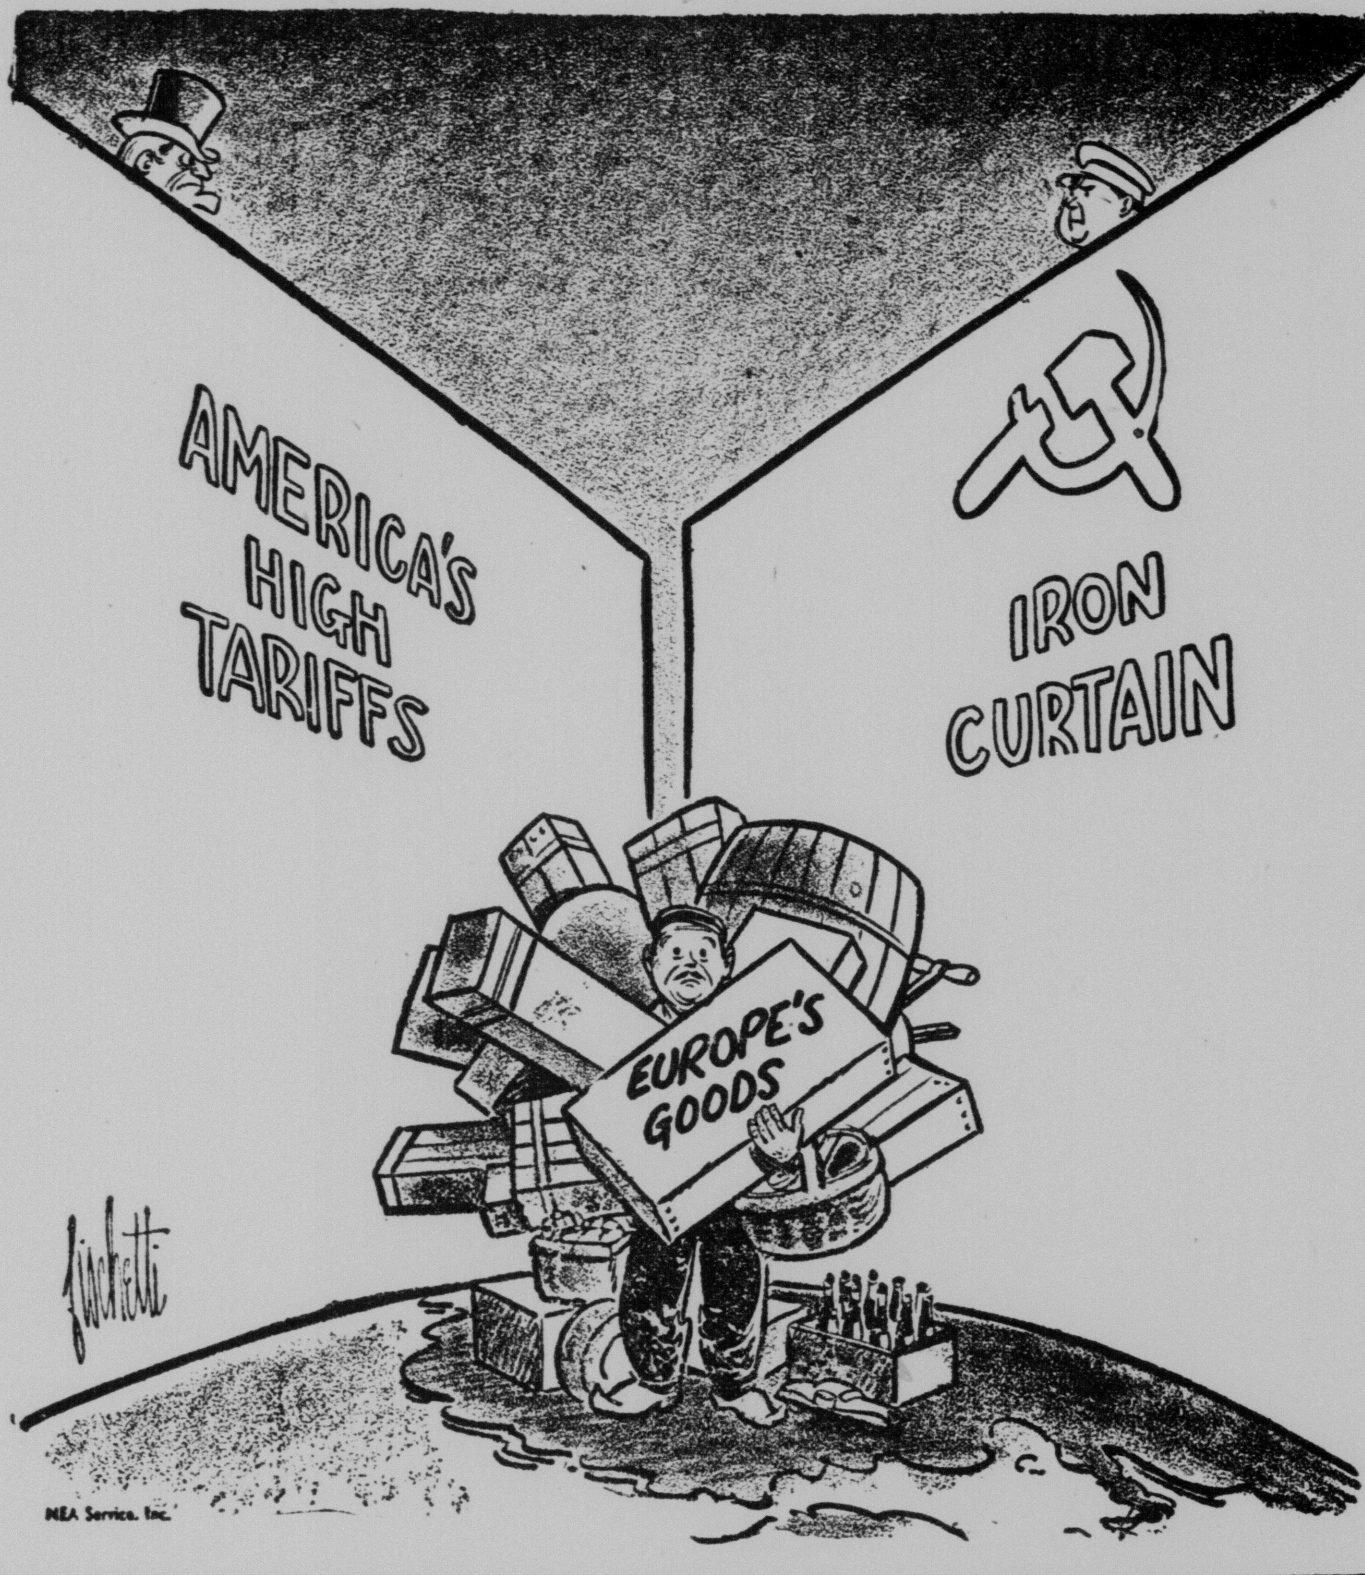

Light from the sun takes about four years to reach the star nearest to it.

No Man's Land

Are Communists Criminals In America?

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Some time ago, I wrote that it is not a crime in this country to be a Communist and that I could not understand why so many of them took refuge in the Fifth Amendment on the ground that to testify would incriminate them.

So I was overwhelmed by letters pro and con; some from distinguished lawyers who explained the intricacies of the problem; some from laymen who insist that to be a Communist is criminal per se.

A crime cannot be defined by private opinion; it is defined by an act of legislation. PRIVATELY we may hold that for a woman to dye her hair is a crime, but as no legislative body has so stipulated, it is not a crime. Under the federal government, a crime may be treason, a felony or a misdemeanor.

Some letter-writers make the point that a Communist is ipso facto a traitor, but what they overlook is that it is the courts alone who can decide this with respect to the individual concerned.

The accepted definition of treason is: "Treason against the United States has been defined by the United States Constitution as levying war against the United States or adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort . . ."

To be declared a traitor, a man must be indicted by a grand jury, tried by due process in a court of law, convicted and sentenced. Less than this process is impossible under the American way of life.

THE COMMUNIST situation has become complicated by the fact that there is no law making membership in the Communist party a crime. But the Smith Act, tested in the case of "The Eleven" in New York before Judge Harold Medina, and upheld by the United States Supreme Court, did establish that Eugene Dennis and his comrades did conspire to organize the Communist party as a group to teach and advocate the overthrow of the government of the United States by force and violence.

Here they are in a conflict of ideas, namely, that while it is not a crime to be a member of the Communist party, it is a crime to organize to teach and advocate the overthrow of the American government by force and violence.

A lawyer writes me that were a Communist client to seek his advice, he would therefore be forced to advise his client to take refuge in the Fifth Amendment.

ANOTHER POINT that is made by a lawyer deserves quotation:

"The answer to a question need not be in itself incriminating in order for the privilege against self-incrimination to become operative."

If the answer to a question might furnish a clue to the commission of a crime, or form a link in a chain of circumstances which might tend to incriminate, a person is entitled to raise the privilege.

"Now, while membership in the Communist party in itself is not a crime, admission of membership therein might give a clue or a link to the government to identify the individual as a knowing member of a conspiracy to advocate the violent overthrow of the government, punishable under the Smith Act of 1940.

"Thus, so long as the Smith Act is on the books, an individual can refuse to answer the question on the grounds of self-incrimination."

NEVERTHELESS, if a man is guiltless, as most Americans are, of any act, in all their lives, against the United States, I cannot understand why he should fear self-incrimination.

If he fears that something that he might say could by implication or construction get him into trouble, then he must know that he did something wrong or that he associated with people who did something wrong.

I am also told: "Under the present decisions of the Supreme Court, if a person once answers that he is not a member of the Communist party, it would probably be held that he had waived all his rights to refuse to answer any other questions whatsoever about Communism."

However, if a person has not performed an act against the United States, why should he not be willing to answer questions concerning Communism, the answers being designed to aid the United States? For example, suppose I had to witness a murder, but no one saw me witness it, should I not notify the police, lest I be questioned about myself and why I was there?

Causa Sine Qua Non

By TRUMAN TWILL

The most surprising publication to pause on its way to the paper baler in a long time is "Why Study Latin in School?"

Its contents are answers from 84 college presidents, deans and executives—and to give you an idea what they said, the pamphlet is the brainstem of the American Classical League "an organization active primarily in improving the teaching of Latin." Wouldn't you know?

Before this one gets to the paper baler, however, it is going to make the trip home to the bedside table for reading some night in case of sleeplessness. This is an affliction which can be expected to strike without warning from two to three times a year, usually after eating cold fried chicken at bedtime.

When it happens, a sedative is needed.

It is of the utmost interest why Latin should be studied in school in any instance but one—when the pupil has learned all he needs to know about English. Since this is a perennially lively subject, this is the proposition:

That there is time in most public schools for only the most basic instruction in the use of the English language and an introduction to the vast range of reading matter written in English.

That this instruction is the exception rather than the rule, not solely because of the inadequacy of instruction but even more because of the handicaps under which even the ablest and most conscientious teachers of English must labor.

That one of the heaviest of these handicaps is the fact that the pupil has been bombarded from every side since birth with gross abuse of the chief tool he will need to use throughout his lifetime and cannot afford to use awkwardly lest he hurt himself.

That Latin, Greek and the modern languages are invaluable for advanced study by those who are competent to learn them but that it makes no sense whatever for anyone to be wasting time on them unless he already is proficient in the use of English.

That to inflict Latin on a student who is not prepared for it and takes it only to earn a trained-dog credit so he can graduate is as absurd as letting elementary-school pupils begin to fool around with calculus before they have learned to do problems in ordinary arithmetic—a waste of their time, of teaching time and a wanton abuse of funds made available for public education.

In our neighboring country of Canada, most of the natives speak and write in a manner creditable to their education in their native tongue. Jamaicans brought to this country to work on farms speak better English than the children of Americans who have gone to college.

No one—no one at all—has any objection to Latin as a part of education, provided it has been preceded by a thorough grounding in English. It should be preserved by all means in the curriculum, and Latin teachers should be preserved in the personnel of education.

But in no case should one minute be spent on Latin which could be spent profitably on English—a study being manhandled so shamefully that not one American in 20 can express a thought cogently or write a decent letter.

The Dictator And The Doctor

Malenkov—Doctor, I'm sorry to have summoned you so fast but I feel terrible.

Doctor—I haven't felt very well myself lately. What are your symptoms?

Malenkov—Something very strange is happening to me. All of a sudden I feel kindly. I even have spells when I am not suspicious of anybody.

Doctor—Hm-m-m! Anything else?

Malenkov—Last night a terrible thing happened to me: I saw an American on the street and didn't instantly cry, "Warmonger."

Doctor—This is really alarming. I hope it won't be necessary to operate.

Malenkov—Why are you shaking so?

Doctor—After all, we Russian doctors have been left very nervous. The allegations that we were conspirators who killed out patients knocked us flat.

Malenkov—I repudiated all such stuff the minute I felt sick. I assure you that all Russians now consider their doctor a decent human being and wholly trustworthy?

Doctor—Would you put that in writing?

Malenkov—Pravda has already put it in writing.

Doctor—But I'm not treating Pravda.

Malenkov—Believe me when I say again that Russian physicians are above suspicion. Go ahead and diagnose my case. You are safe no matter what you find.

Doctor—Does that hold true whether you feel better or worse after my prescription?

Malenkov—Certainly, but I hope you are smart enough to see that I feel better. I didn't sleep a wink all night. That's why I called you.

Doctor—I didn't sleep the rest of the night. That's because you called me. Give me some more symptoms. Do you have that all-gone feeling?

Malenkov—No; my opponents have it.

Doctor—Do you have shortness of breath?

Malenkov—No, do you?

Doctor—Only when I get a call like this. Let me feel your pulse. (He feels it.)—wouldn't call it fast and I wouldn't call it slow.

Malenkov—Why not?

Doctor—A friend of mine took a positive position on a Kremlin leader's pulse beat and wound up in Siberia. However, I'll leave you some pills. If you don't get immediate relief it will make a sick man of me.

Malenkov—How many do I take?

Doctor—Two after each meal until you get rid of these spells of brotherly love and kindness.

Malenkov—Okay. If I have a relapse I'll phone you.

Doctor—And if I answer you can phone my psychiatrist!

Miss Jean Louise Garlock Wed To George Albert Kaufman

Only the immediate families and close friends witnessed the simply appointed wedding of Miss Jean Louise Garlock and George Albert Kaufman performed Saturday at 2 o'clock by Rev. R. J. Hunter, Baptist Church pastor.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. V. Garlock of Penn Ave. and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kaufman of Mound St., exchanged their vows in a single ring ceremony which took place in a palm-flanked altar setting before the fireplace in the chapel of the First Baptist Church. Candles in gold candelabra on the mantel lighted the scene and a center arrangement included all-white flowers.

Mrs. Robert Hammill played the nuptial melodies. During the ceremony she played "With This Ring I Thee Wed" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride wore an orlon tailored suit in a pink-tan color. Her accessories were navy, and the pearls she wore were the gift of the groom. An orchid centered her bridal bouquet of white carnations. Mrs. Garlock gave his daughter in marriage.

As maid of honor, Miss Doris Miller complemented her yellow suit with navy blue accessories and a pearl necklace. She carried purple sweetpeas arranged around yellow carnations.

Dale Garlock, cousin of the bride, was best man. James Garlock, brother of the bride, Carl Kaufman, brother of the groom and Jerry Garlock, brother of the best man, directed the guests to the reception room.

Mrs. O. V. Garlock, stepmother of the bride, wore a dark green suit. Her accessories were brown and her corsage contained dark red roses.

Miss Venora Chapin and a committee of women of the church arranged the reception for 80 guests from Salem, Massillon, Columbiana, Alliance, Akron, and Freedom, Pa. After the newlyweds greeted their guests, a three-tiered wedding cake was served with the refreshments. Serving were Mrs. Gene Lynch (Colleen Kirby), Miss Mary Mozina, Miss Patricia Kornbau and Miss Barbara Russ. Mrs. W. E. Vignone, aunt of the bride, cut the cake.

For a brief honeymoon trip the bride traveled in her wedding suit and she wore the orchid from her bouquet. The couple will make their home at 1208 Mound St.

Mrs. Kaufman graduated from Salem High School in 1951 and her husband graduated from Salem in 1950. He is employed as a machine operator at the Buffalo Weaving and Belting Co. in Alliance. She was formerly a bookkeeper with the Salem Concrete and Supply Co.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

DETROIT — The country's got a dose of premature peace jitters.

So say the spokesmen of the nation's biggest corporations. They see no depression chasing prosperity around the corner. They predict no drastic slash in jobs anywhere.

Even in the face of a full military peace in the Orient, these industrialists believe there will be only slight cutbacks in the terrific, multi-billion dollar production of weapons for land and aerial defense against the sweet-talking Soviets.

This prediction comes from men who have talked regularly with General Motors president, now secretary of defense, Charles Wilson.

They quote him as stating there will be only slight modification of the defense program for some years, despite anything the Soviets say or do.

THEY SAY Mr. Wilson is aware of the nature of the enemy, and that he and President Eisenhower are in general agreement that there must not be any serious cutback or cancellation of defense orders.

So the nation's best informed industrialists — especially those high in steel and automotive circles — believe that the only danger to the nation's economy is from a sense of panic which may spring from those who talk about the danger of an early depression.

They point out that all production is high and that employment is, in fact, at an all-time record, barring the actual war years.

One expert puts it this way: "A Korean peace could result in some cutbacks, but this needn't be more than a temporary weakening influence if — and this is a big IF — the government takes a very firm stand in telling the people that the slashes in orders are minor.

"The effect will be determined almost solely by the manner in which President Eisenhower sells it to the millions of defense workers (so they don't stop buying suddenly), to the public, and to the small business fellow.

"In January and February the auto industry sold 1,148,127 units — including 939,390 family cars, 208,283 trucks and 444 buses. That's about 340,000 more than last year. And we know we're going to run up the largest first half year in history, with total sales of over 4,000,000 before July 1. That's real prosperity for all businesses."

EXCERPT For the textile and coal industrialists, this attitude is reflected all through the heavily industrialized North Atlantic area.

A special economic Pulmotor job may have to be done on the textile business where strikes already are flaring and some 60,000 workers face pay cuts.

In coal, no one knows exactly what John Lewis has in mind — except for the fact that they know he's somewhere in Florida, either heading back to Washington or up to some isolated bungalow to think.

It is known that he hopes to see President Eisenhower to push his special plan for overseas sale of U. S. coal carried in some of the 1900 Liberty ships now in mothballs.

If America doesn't need its own coal, Lewis believes Europe needs it and will buy it if the price is right and it can be shipped over cheaply.

BUT TOUGH times in the textile and coal fields don't mean rough going elsewhere — if there is no "panic thinging," the industrialists say.

Many of the business men counting on the AFL's traditional middle-of-the-road conservatism to counter any hysteria.

There is criticism here of Walter Reuther's call for a public works program. Not that business won't back it, but they believe wide discussion of it will add to the "unwarranted uneasiness."

However, they count on both the AFL and the CIO to hit back at the small but loud-mouthed Communist unions which are already serving the international Soviet line by attempting to whip up a depression fear neurosis.

The left wing line was reflected in the first major policy statement issued by a powerful pro-Communist union since the new Soviet softness.

THIS CAME from the notorious Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union out of Denver the other day. It's "must reading" because it sets the tone for the Communist line assault on our economy and peace of mind, and is the first indication of what the new rosiness is expected to do to the capitalist world.

"The Eisenhower Administration, with its 'Billionaire Cabinet,' makes things different. The danger of a depression soon, not only in the non-ferrous metals industry, but in all American industries, makes things different. The 'fight - back' spirit spreading among workers, professionals, small businessmen, aliens and naturalized citizens, Negroes and Mexican-Americans — makes things different, too."

Then the lefties called on the AFL and CIO to join in planning for "the early depression." They'd sure like it. But they won't get it. War or peace, we'll ride high, the businessmen say.

Movies Get 3 Dimensions

Systems Differ, but Depth Is the Objective

A Free Soul

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — All the free souls aren't young.

The most youthful-looking, independent-minded fellow in town today is a 75-year-old gent who drags down about $75,000 a year, wears a blue beret and a monocle—and likes to munch jelly beans.

He is Charles Coburn, the sprightly dean of a place called Hollywood, which sometimes has been described as seven villages in search of a town—and a third dimension.

Charlie has acted in 400 plays and 53 pictures, and he has played so many older roles his face is perhaps better known across America than Whistler's mother of the man on a $2 bill.

Off screen, Charlie is definitely a young codger indeed, with spring in his step and summer in his heart. No studio has ever been able to chain him to a long-term contract.

"I like to be free to do what I like," he said, as we chatted in his hotel suite. On the table before him were a bunch of jelly beans. On his desk was a magazine called, "Lifetime Living—for People Who Plan Ahead."

Coburn started his movie career in 1937 after the death of his wife, with whom he had toured for 32 years. The two once played in the old Coburn Theater, which now stands shuttered and dark on W. 63rd St.

"No, I won't go by to look at it," he said. "It would only make me feel sad."

Charlie doesn't believe in looking back or letting yourself feel blue and lonely. He always wants to try something new. Recently he finished his latest picture, "Trouble Along the Way," and is looking forward to attending his first Kentucky Derby.

He learned to drive a sulky at 70, fell in love with horses, and now owns a stable of top trotters and pacers. He spends the summer touring the state fair circuit with them.

"The horses are more than a hobby," he said. "I'll make money on them this year."

woman. You can't buy his affection, and he always remembers you. I can go to a field and call one of my horses I haven't seen for a year—and he'll come running for a year and a lump of sugar."

Charlie's favorite vices besides jelly beans are cigars, liquor, poker and gin rummy—all practiced in moderation. This is his philosophy after 63 years onstage.

"Don't worry. Don't fear death. Don't over eat, over-drink, don't take violent exercise, don't over-indulge in anything. My single exception is dancing. I can dance all night with a good partner."

And Charlie added, his eyes twinkling: "I have no morals, and I don't moralize."

The phone rang then, and Coburn stared balefully at it through his monocle and said wistfully, "point killer!"

Charlie once was known as the world's highest paid actor because he got $10,000 for saying a single line.

"I've forgotten the line now," he remarked. "It wasn't one for the ages."

Another time he got $15,000 for a single movie scene that the public never saw. Charlie was paid $10,000 for it, but the director another $5,000 it would be cut from the film. It was.

A long life has left Coburn with only two more goals.

"A man has to be careful not to start repeating himself," he said. "So I would like to do something I have never done before in the theater—anything fresh, bright, and new. And I would like to see the 16th Amendment to the Constitution repealed."

That amendment is the one that created the income tax, and whenever Charlie talks about it the eye behind his monocle sees red. Looks red, too. How's a spry young guy turning 76 ever going to pile up any jelly beans for his old age?

Many Japanese feel that Buddhism and Shinto are two forms of the same religion and so accept both faiths.

Health To You

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Illness Outcome Difficult To Determine

One of the most difficult problems facing physicians in their care of the sick is to try to calculate what the outcome of an illness will be. It is, of course, relatively easy in the case of some minor ailments, such as a common cold, but it is extraordinarily difficult to forecast the future in many of the more complicated diseases.

When ever anyone is stricken by a serious illness or is facing an operation, both the patient and the patient's family want to know whether recovery will take place, how long it will take to get well, and if recovery is not complete, how much interference there will be with future activities and health.

These are good questions, but too often they cannot be answered to the complete satisfaction of the patient and his family. The reason for this is that no two people react exactly alike to the same disease or operation. Also, a single disease varies a great deal in its effect on different patients.

Thus, even in most mild diseases, there will be a few patients, perhaps one or two out of a hundred, who may develop serious complications. About all the doctor can do in such cases, therefore, is to state that the vast majority recover without difficulty.

When the proportion of those who do not recover from a disease is high the problem of foretelling the outcome is particularly difficult. At the beginning of an illness also, it is more difficult to tell what the result will be than it is later on when the physician has had a chance to observe the disease and its effect on the patient and the ability of the patient to withstand its ravages.

Consequently, it is often the case that the more experience the doctor has, the more reluctant he is to tell a patient or the patient's family something definite when there may be a fifty-fifty chance of being wrong.

The same problems exist when

Audit Shows Firemen

Made $23,710 On Bingo

RAVENNA, O. — Nearby Brady Lake's volunteer fire department made a profit of $23,710 by sponsoring bingo in a 20-month period ending last February, an auditor's report shows.

The audit was made by Accountant Peter F. Cipriani at the request of the village council. The council hired him to avert a threat of a grand jury investigation by Portage County Prosecutor Robert E. Cook.

Cook said he had not yet had time to investigate the audit. He has said previously he pressed for an accounting because he wanted to determine whether any private individuals were profiting from the bingo games.

About 400 billion cigarettes costing about 4 billion dollars are used each year in the United States.

Two Games To Open 1953 Major League Play Today

Nats, Redlegs Seek Quick Start

Nixon To Throw Out First Ball Today

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Washington and Cincinnati, noted for their early starts and lagging finishes, beat the gun again today as they inaugurate another major league season that promises to provide special interest for the nation's baseball fans.

The World Champion New York Yankees and Defending National League Champion Brooklyn Dodgers, the choice of the experts and betting commissioners alike, ruled heavy favorites to repeat. Cleveland and Chicago in the American, and New York, Philadelphia and St. Louis in the National, were given outside chances to pull upsets.

Although the Yankees and Dodgers will have little or no change in their lineups, teams in general have undergone tremendous re-vamping with only 44 per cent of last year's starting lineups back. The batting orders present 22 freshman faces, excluding the pitchers.

In today's only American League game, Washington was scheduled to engage the Yankees at the nation's capital, where Vice President Nixon subs for President Eisenhower in throwing out the first ball.

A crowd of 30,000 was expected to be on hand to see whether the Yankees can get off on the right foot in their bid for an unprecedented fifth straight pennant. Allie Reynolds (20-8), the Yankees' brilliant right-hander, was to oppose Bob Porterfield (13-14), who once toiled for the New Yorkers.

A capacity crowd of some 30,000 was scheduled for Cincinnati's Crosley Field to welcome the Milwaukee Braves back into the big leagues. Milwaukee, in an astonishing franchise shift from Boston, returns after an absence of 50 years. It was a member of the American League in 1901 only to relinquish its franchise to the St. Louis Browns the following year.

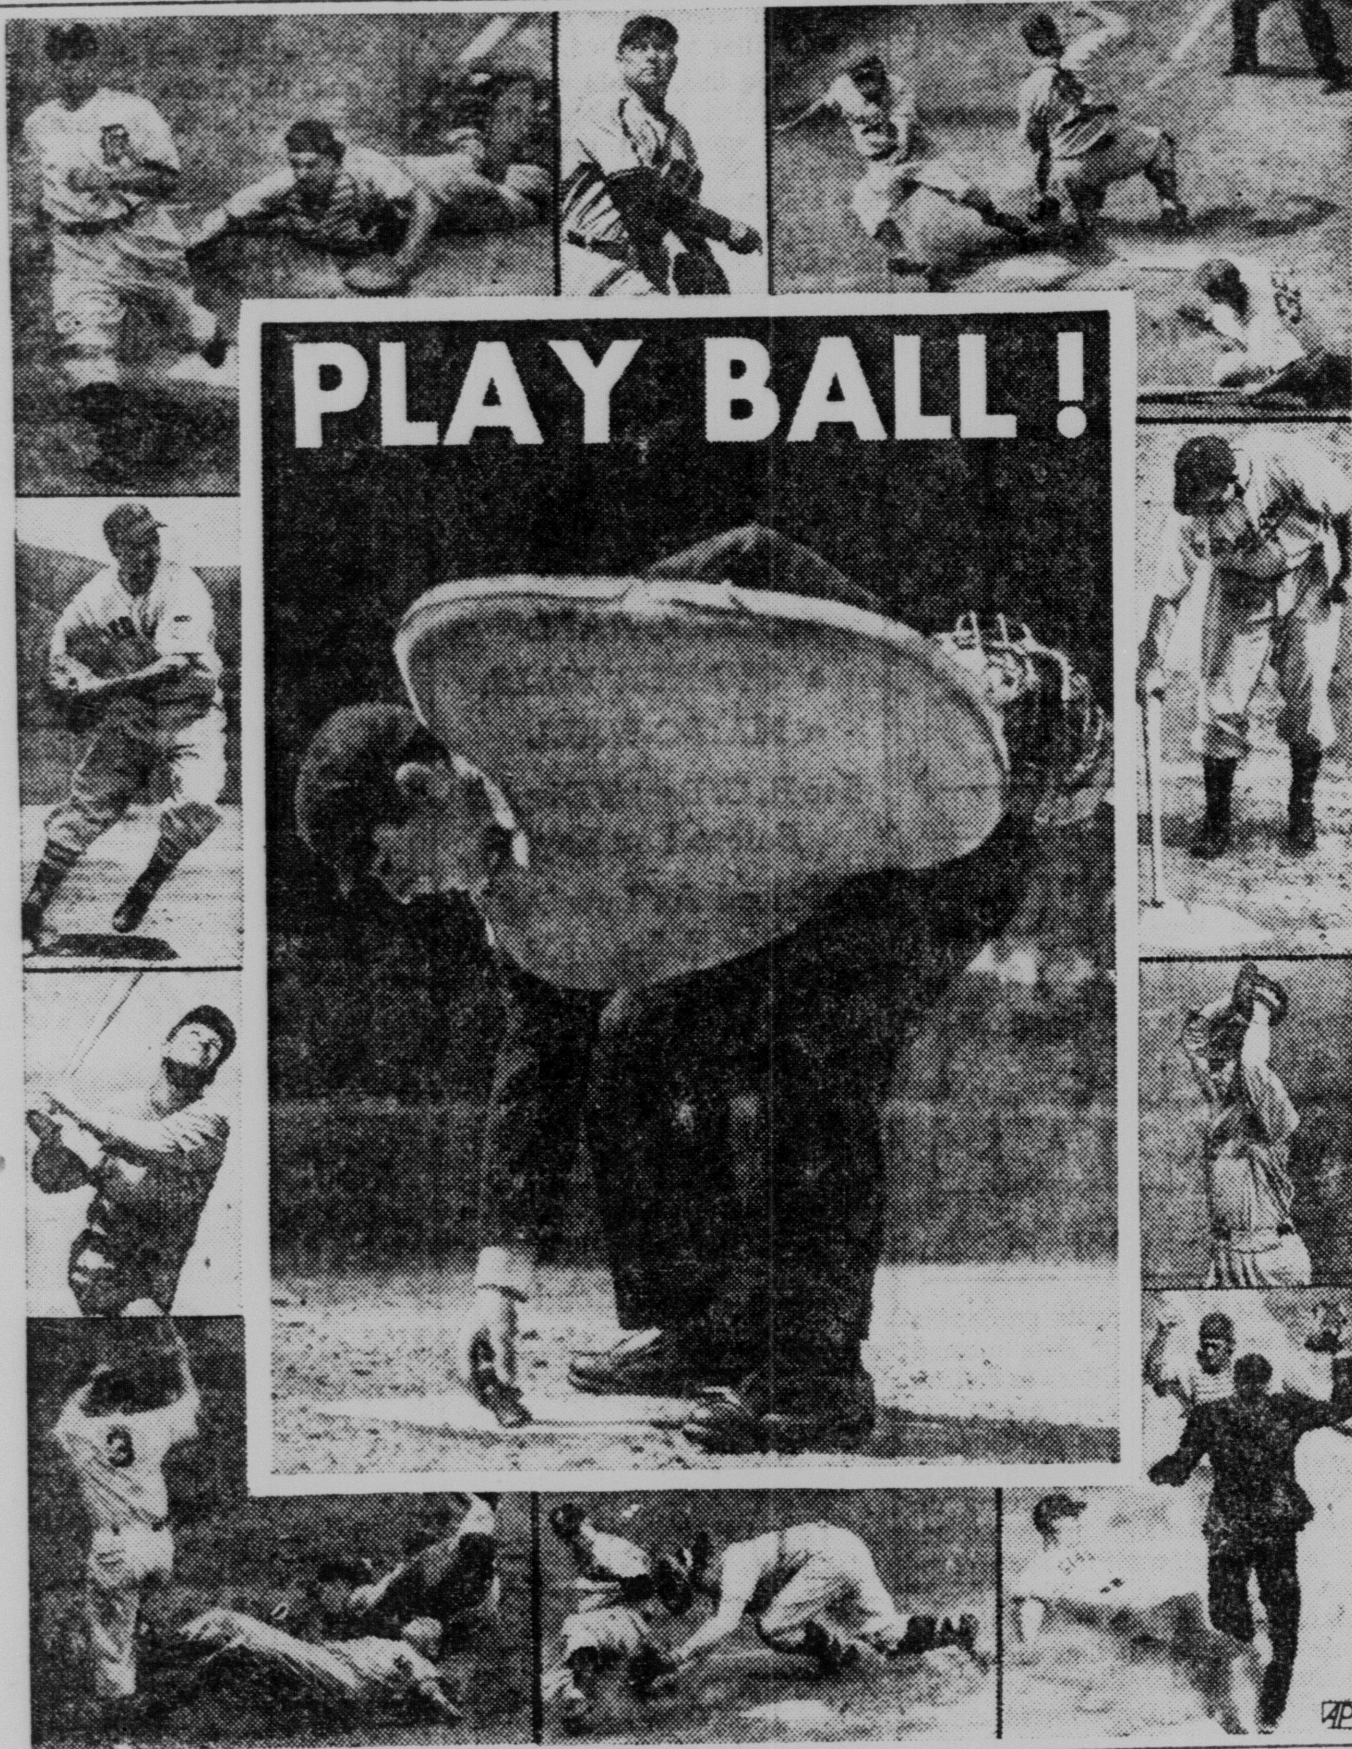

Manager Charley Grimm of the Braves planned to pitch right-hander Max Surkont (12-13) against Cincinnati while Rogers Hornsby of the Redlegs decided on Clarence (Bud) Podbielan (5-5). Each pitcher saved his star southpaw for tomorrow's games. Hornsby wants Keny Raffensberger (17-13) to oppose his Chicago Cub cousins and Grimm held out Warren Spahn (14-19) for the predominantly left-handed hitting St. Louis Cardinals in Milwaukee's first home game tomorrow.

All teams swing into action tomorrow when eight games are expected to attract some 231,000 spectators, and bring the total attendance up to 219,000 for the 10 openers. The record opening day attendance was set in the lush 1948 days when 331,783 watched 10 inaugurals. Last year, eight openers drew 172,322 fans.

Tomorrow's largest crowd is expected in Cleveland, where 55,000 hope to watch a right-handed duel between Saul Rogovin (14-9) of the Chicago White Sox and Bob Lemon (22-11) of the Indians.

The National League's biggest turnout probably will be at Milwaukee, where 36,000 are expected to see the improved Braves take on Eddie Stanky's Cards.

A change in the schedule resulting from the franchise shift will pit Pittsburgh against the Dodgers at Brooklyn. Some 25,000 are expected to watch the Dodgers open defense of the National League title with right-hander Carl Erskine

PLAY BALL!

(14-6) on the mound. Veteran Murry Dickon (14-21) will be on the hill for the Pirates.

Robin Roberts, the majors' biggest 1952 winner with 28, makes his fourth opening day start in Philadelphia against the New York Giants. Some 20,000 figure to see Larry Jansen (11-11) oppose their favorite.

The Cubs, winners of their last three openers, will face an old jinx in Raffensberger, who has whipped them 27 times while losing only 14. Some 25,000 will see right-hander Bob Rush (17-13) try to snap the Redleg southpaw's hex.

The St. Louis Browns will have their first night opener in history, meeting the Detroit Tigers. Some 15,000 will have to get accustomed to the new lineups. No fewer than seven players were on the opposing team in 1952, including right-hander Ned Garver (8-10) of Detroit, who last year pitched the opener for the Browns and shut out the Tigers, 3-0. Virgil Trucks (5-19), traded by Detroit to St. Louis last winter, will hurl against his former mates.

The stand-pat Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics will clash at Yankee Stadium before some 40,000. Vic Raschi (16-6), who holds a 2-4 edge over the A's, will be on the mound for the Yankees. He will be opposed by left-hander Alex Kellner (12-14).

Mel Parnell (12-12), who has whipped Washington 18 times in 31 decisions, will try to maintain his mastery over the Nats in Boston. A turnout of 15,000 is expected to watch Lou Boudreau's youngsters hit against their former teammate, right-hander Walter Masterstone (10-9).

Home Fans Mob Team Over Called Home Run

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP)—The ball scorched down the third base line. Umpires called it a home run, scoring three and giving Tokyo's Robins their second win of a Sunday double-header against the Hiroshima Carp.

Beer bottles and seat cushions landed all over the field as 15,000 home town fans exercised their ire. One thousand howling partisans surged onto the field. Their vanguard stormed into the Robins' dugout and manhandled several players.

Police rushed the four umpires out of the park.

Masters Golf Tourney Is Won By Ben Hogan

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—When Ben Hogan, the little perfectionist from Texas, stepped up to accept the $4,000 check for his record-shattering victory in the 17th Masters Golf Tournament, he said he hoped to return next year and shoot the same caliber of golf.

Babe Zaharias Readied For Surgery

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—Babe Didrickson Zaharias was being prepared for an operation today as the sports world wondered if the greatest woman athlete ever again would trek golf courses in championship play.

A malignant condition that calls for major surgery knocked her out of the woman's golf tour and some time this week she is due to undergo the fateful operation. A noted specialist now is being sought and may be obtained before the day is over.

George Zaharias, husband of the Babe, left Sunday for Denver and may be conferring with a specialist there.

Mrs. Zaharias was told Saturday by specialists who had given her a three-day examination that she had a malignancy of the lower rectum, that they thought they could correct the condition but "whether it will return is something else again." They would not speculate on whether she would be able to play golf again.

Barons Edge Hornets For Playoff Lead

CLEVELAND (AP)—Wing Eddie Olson of the Cleveland Barons, the American Hockey League's top scorer, Sunday night scored the winning goal in Cleveland's 2-1 double-header against the Pittsburgh Hornets.

A "loafing" accusation had been flung at Olson and his teammate Steve Wocho, by their boss, Barons General Manager Jim Hendy, after Thursday night's loss to Pittsburgh.

"I may have had an off night but anyone who says I'm not trying to hurt and I want the hockey fans to know it isn't true," said Eddie.

Ironically, the other "loafers," Wocho, also figured in the second goal, which gave Cleveland a 3-2 edge over Pittsburgh in the four-out-of-seven playoffs.

The sixth game of the series will be played in Pittsburgh Tuesday, and the seventh, if necessary, at Cleveland Arena.

BUYS TEAM JACKETS
Jim Wilson, owner of the Salem Tool Co., has purchased jackets for the Salem Tool Team, honoring the squad for winning the runner-up slot in the City League Class A basketball tournament this year.

Byron Nelson, a fellow Texan who has acted as host player since Bob Jones retired, replied: "If Ben Hogan comes back and shoots the same caliber of golf he shot this year, he'll be out there playing all by himself."

After the way the "retired" Hogan tamed the tough, 6,900-yard Augusta National Club course, his tournament mates probably wish he'd waited until today and played with President Eisenhower during his golfing vacation instead of beating them out of the biggest hunk of prize money.

The 40-year-old 1951 Masters champion made the beautiful, spacious course look easy with his almost faultless performance. His iron shots and putting were particularly effective.

Not only did he slice 14 strokes off par, but he also bettered the previous tournament record by five strokes. And his 70-69-66-69-274 was the third time in Masters history that anyone has managed four sub-par rounds. Par is 36-36-72.

Ed (Porky) Oliver of Palm Springs, Calif., shot a 70 yesterday to match the old record of 279 and finish second.

Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., high money winner this winter, made a nice comeback to finish third with a 282.

Oliver pocketed $2,500 and Mangrum $1,700 when prize money in the $10,000 tournament was doubled all the way down the line. The total was approximately $26,000 when you count the $200 grant to every pro who finished out of the top 24 "money" places.

Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind., was fourth with 283, good for $1,400. Chick Herbert of Detroit and Tommy Bolt of Maplewood, N. J., tied for fifth with 285, $900 each, and Ted Kroll of Hartford, N. Y., had 286 for seventh and $700. Harvie Ward Jr. of Atlanta and Frank Stranahan of Toledo tied for low amateur honors with 291.

Defending Champion Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., had a 292 total and a tie for 16th.

Johnstown, Mohawks Meet For Amateur Title

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—The Johnstown Jets, champions of the Eastern Hockey League, and the Cincinnati Mohawks, champions of the International Hockey League, meet here Tuesday night in the first of a best-of-five series for the U. S. Amateur title.

All games will be played in Johnstown. Johnstown won the EHL crown Sunday by beating the Springfield Indians 2-0. Springfield won two games in the best of seven series.

Cincinnati won the right to meet Johnstown by beating Sault Ste. Marie 4-1 in a best-of-seven series.

Salem Track Squad To Face Springfield

By SANDY HANSELL

The Salem Track team will get its first taste of action Tuesday afternoon when Springfield Township invades Reilly Stadium at 4 for the first of five dual meets carded for the year.

Coaches Frank J. Tarr and

Karl Zellers worked the squad out doors all last week, and, although severely pressed for time, have brought the boys into fine shape for tomorrow's opener.

The next meet will be this Friday when Youngstown Ursuline comes into town.

Much of the Quakers' hope rests on Ed Votaw, who is counted on to repeat his fine performances of last year in the pole vault. In addition to vaulting, Votaw will run the 440, the 120-yard low-hurdles, and will high jump.

The coaches are figuring on many points in the mile run, which may prove to be one of the Quakers' strongest events. Jerry Martin and Bill Lipp, both of whom starred last year in distance events, should lead the way.

Captain Tom Johnston, ace miller of last season, has switched to the 880 this year, and, along with freshman Dave Williams, should score heavily during the year.

Each of these boys is among the seven returning lettermen with the exception of Williams.

The big question marks this year are the dashes.

The Quakers failed to take a single first place in the dashes last year. Letterman Bob Sebo is the key man in the 100-yard dash, while Bill Herman leads the way in the 220. Speedy Jim Beard also will run the century, while Art Tashner will back up Herman in the 220.

Joe Hajcak, also a letterman, is the main threat in both the 120-yard and 180-yard low hurdles. Sebo will work with Hajcak in the 120-yard event while Votaw will team with Hajcak in the 180.

Dale Barton will back up Votaw in both the 440 and the pole vault, while Johnny Chester also will run the quarter mile and Roy Honeywell will join the vaulters.

Freshman Jack Alexander is the key to the high jump. Last year while at Junior High School, Alexander registered several fine marks. Beard, Tasker, and Bob Domencetti are the locals' entries in the broad jump.

The seventh returning letterman, big Jack Ference, paces the Red and Black in the discus, backed up by football star George Mordew.

The Quakers will have a large representation in the shot put, including John Baker, Carl Flitcraft Jr., Bill Megert and Mordew.

Two of the most important events in any meet are the two relays, the mile and the half-mile runs. Last year, the locals lost a couple of dual meets because of their lack of relay strength.

This season, the half-mile squad will be Herman, Beard, Sebo, and Hajcak, a fleet-footed quartet which should be hard to beat. The mile team will be composed of Lipp, Barton, Johnston, and either Williams or Votaw.

A large crowd is expected to come out tomorrow for the opening meet. Although one jumping pit will not be in operation, Faculty Manager Fred Cope said today that he would try to run the meet off in one hour and 20 minutes.

Last year, with the addition of a new pit for the jumpers, an all-time record was established when the first meet of the year was run off in 64 1/2 minutes.

Harlem Globetrotters Drop Second Straight

CINCINNATI (AP)—Harlem's Globetrotters, still weakened by the absence of ailing Goose Tatum, dropped their second straight exhibition basketball game to the College All-Stars Sunday night, 86-63.

The 23-point victory margin was the greatest recorded by either team in the 17 games they have played in their current cross-country series. The collegians now have won six games.

Tatum, star center for the Trotters, was on hand for the usual circus stunts before the game, but did not play in the actual game because of the recurrence of a back ailment.

Damper Aids Thermostat As Convector Regulator

In the early spring when just enough heat is needed to take the chill off rooms, heating systems with precise controls to augment thermostatic controls are helpful. Newest aid in this direction is the damper incorporated in the modern convector.

The damper is manually operated to cut off the full flow of heat from the convector or modulate it to the exact comfort level desired.

Annuals Are Versatile; Fill Garden Needs

By HENRY PREE

Annuals are the indispensable flowers for the home garden, be it large or small, formal or informal. Long season bloomers, quick growers, low growers, medium height and tall, they will fit into the role assigned. There's an annual for every need.

When the bulb beds are getting unsightly, tuck in annuals and they will soon hide the drying foliage. After the iris season there is apt to be a gap in the floral parade that annuals do fill. Annuals are the answer to those who need cut flowers in abundance.

The 10 most popular annuals are zinnia, marigold, bachelor's button, larkspur, annual phlox, snapdragon, petunia, gaillardia, annual chrysanthemum and pansy. Other widely grown ones include verbena, sunflower, scabiosa, cosmos, China aster and the pinks.

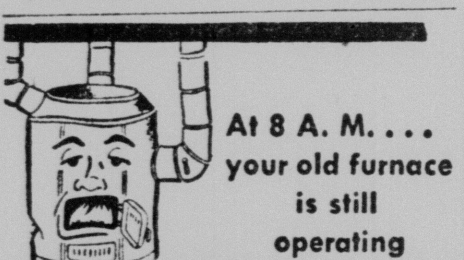

Good edging annuals include the verbena, annual phlox, etc. Ones of moderate height are zinnias, dwarf French marigolds, Negelia, larkspur, gaillardia, China aster, chrysanthemum, dahlias, snapdragons. Of the tall growers the cosmos and tall African marigolds are the most commonly grown, but other good ones are Mexican sunflower (Tithonia), sunflower, castor bean, hollyhock and hibiscus.

To many home gardeners the first mild days of spring means rolling the lawn — and in some cases — an application of lime. If rolling is necessary to press back grass heaved out by the frost then do so but not with a heavy roller. A water ballast roller—with very little water in it—will do the job. Using a heavy roller will do more harm than good. Lime is not necessary.

Home gardeners this season will, for the first time, be able to attack a wide range of garden pests including aphids, mites, scales and other insects with one easy-to-use insecticide which the Department of Agriculture describes as "one of the safest insecticides to handle."

A HOUSE that adjusts itself to family needs. The first floor is a complete honeymoon cottage. Second floor may be finished when extra bedrooms are needed. When family grows up, first floor bedroom becomes a den, study or TV room, leaving master bedroom and guest room upstairs. This is Design 5278 by William G. Chirgottis, architect, 968 Stuyvesant Ave., Union, N.J. The house covers 960 square feet, without porch and garage, and contains 19,780 cubic feet with basement.

Water-White Lacquer Prevents Discoloration

When finishing bleached or other pale wood finishes, it is important first, to prevent the surface discoloration which may occur when a wood filler is applied.

To avoid this, a thin water-white lacquer often is applied after the bleached wood has been sanded. Not only does this dealer maintain the bleached effect of the wood, but it also stiffens the loose wood fibers.

Most coal ashes are alkaline and highly corrosive.

cide, malathion, permits gardeners to use one spray or dust instead of several specific killers to control the many pests which yearly plague the nation's home gardens.

Malathion is the first insecticide which, when used according to directions, is safe enough for home use and controls such common pests as mites, "plant lice," mealy-bugs, leaf hoppers, thrips, scale insects, white flies and some beetles and caterpillars.

Studies by the Department of Agriculture have shown that traces of malathion "are lost so quickly from fruits and vegetables that there is less danger of contamination than in the case of more persistent insecticides."

The pests which can be controlled by malathion attack such popular food crops as beans, potatoes, tomatoes, broccoli and cabbage and such ornamentals as roses, leas, rhododendron, spruce, Juniper, arbor vitae, spirea, euonymus and ivy.

Quizzing The Gardener

Q—Can seedling vegetables and annuals be started indoors for early planting in the garden?

A—Yes—but do not expect stocky, sturdy plants. Because of the poor light and high heat in the middle of the day, the plants are likely to get too spindly and too soft. A hot bed or a cold frame would be a good investment.

Q—What low-growing evergreen shrubs would you recommend for a foot-wide area between the house wall and a service walk? The area receives no direct sunlight.

A—The area is too narrow to permit planting of shrubs. The best plants would be something like Batic Ivy (hedera helix baltica), or plain English Ivy. Be sure that a rich humusy soil is used.

Fix-It Forum

Q—How can vertical cracks in corners of plaster walls be filled?

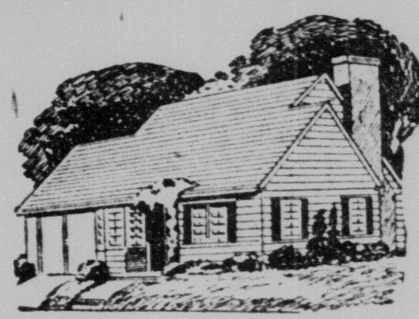

A—The easiest way is to mix patching plaster into a thick paste and brush it into the cracks with a stiff paint brush. Let it dry for a while, then scrape off the excess.

About 15 percent of average coal is ash.

TORONTO (AP) — James Gallant and a passing automobile tangled in nearby Vaughan Township last night and Gallant came out ahead. Talking to a friend in a parked car, Gallant stepped back into the path of an approaching vehicle. He was thrown into the air, landed on the hood of the car, slid down, smashed the windshield, and then dropped to the road.

He wasn't hurt. Damage to the auto came to about $50.

U.S.-Soviet Friendship Group Mobbed

CHICAGO (AP)—Twenty-five police squads dispersed a crowd of 1,500 protesting a "Roosevelt-Stalin memorial" meeting yesterday afternoon, sponsored by the Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

Before police reserves reached the scene, an estimated 500 persons surged into the People's Auditorium and smashed chairs, overturned tables and destroyed and scattered books and pamphlets.

Police Capt. Harry Penzin said the Friendship Council scheduled addresses by writer John Howard Lawson; William L. Patterson, secretary of the Civil Rights Congress; and Cedric Belfrage, editor of the National Guardian, New York.

A banner in the hall read, "For international friendship, a meeting between Eisenhower and Malenkov."

A spokesman for the invaders, Alex J. Zabrosky, said they were members of the American Friends of the Anti-Bolshevik Block of Nations, which supports the underground in Iron Curtain countries.

The scheduled meeting, delayed an hour and a half, was attended by about 50 persons. Pearl Hart, a Chicago woman lawyer, was the only speaker. The Friendship Council directors later adopted a resolution condemning the disorder as an example of "Fascist violence."

Executive Director John Rossen reported.

Prices have been allowed to go up only 87 per cent.

In the event of a third world war, Fairless said, the steel industry would be called upon to erect new facilities.

"Where do we get the capital to do it?" he asked. "With construction costs as they are today, and with steel prices at the present levels, a fully-integrated new plant would probably produce a profit of about 1 1/2 per cent on the capital invested in it."

"Where—outside a mental institution, perhaps—can we find anyone who would be willing to risk his money with us at that rate, when he can get twice as much from a government savings bond?"

Jet Ace Downs Another MIG

7 Reds Blasted Over Korea Sunday

SEOUL (AP)—A Texas jet ace shot down another Red jet fighter today as clear weather brought more battles between Allied Sabres and Communist MIGs.

On Sunday, Allied Sabres destroyed seven MIGs and probably destroyed another.

The ground war continued unabated on the 155-mile front. Allied soldiers and Reds mixed in 29 small fights last night and Communist staff officers today completed arrangements for next Monday's exchange of sick and wounded prisoners.

The battleship New Jersey returned to Korean action and unlimbered her 16-inch guns on Communist targets in Chongjin, in deep Northeast Korea. Seventy-five Navy warplanes and the cruiser Los Angeles joined in slashing Red east coast strong points, the Navy said.

The New Jersey's big guns, scoring seven direct hits in as many minutes, destroyed Chongjin's main communications building, the Navy said.

Maj. James P. Hagerstrom of Tyler, Tex., ran his MIG destruction total to 612 in a dogfight between four Sabres and eight MIGs.

Fifth Air Force fighter-bombers hit Communist supply and personnel facilities in Northwest Korea and gave close support on the battle line.
